

Judging Process

How will consortium proposals be selected?

Proposals will go through a three-step process of selection.

- ❖ Step 1: The Challenge Community members and Global Road Safety Partnership technical reviewers will review proposals to ensure they are innovative, benefit children, and reflect proven and evidence-based interventions. Proposals which fit these basic criteria will be advanced to Step 2.
- ❖ Step 2: Applicants which pass through Step 1 will receive feedback from Community members and Global Road Safety Partnership technical reviewers for consideration. Applicants will be given additional time to consider and incorporate feedback into a final proposal.
- ❖ Step 3: Final proposals will be judged by an international panel of experts against the following criteria:
  - Potential to reduce road crash death and injury (25%)
  - Project design (25%)
  - Collaboration and partnership (15%)
  - Monitoring and evaluation plan (15%)
  - Applicant organizations' capacity to undertake the proposal work (10%)
  - Budget and cost reasonableness (10%)

Those proposals selected for funding by the international panel of experts will enter into a negotiation process with the Global Road Safety Partnership to further refine the final project. This negotiation process will involve a site visit by GRSP staff and is expected to be completed between September and December. Representatives from each consortium will be invited to Basel, Switzerland in February 2018 to make a presentation to the Board of Directors of the Fondation Botnar. Final funding decisions will be made in February 2018 with projects expected to then commence on 1 April 2018.

Who can participate in the Community Review?

Whether as an applicant or merely as someone interested in the child road safety, we are interested in hearing your voice and opinion about the submitted applications. The Community review is scheduled to start on August 8 and you will be asked to give short feedback of applications. Please register in the website as soon as possible so that you can participate! More detailed instructions will be given closer to the date.
